President's Message

Thanks to Dr. Michael W. Moore, Greenville Textile Heritage Band and of the Department of Music Education at Bob Jones University for speaking to us in February about the Greenville Textile Heritage Band and the musical heritage of various mill villages in the upstate. If you would like more information about the band, Dr. Moore can be reached at Bob Jones University or you may contact me.

The meetings for March, April and May will be at The Cascades on Verde Blvd. on the third Sundays of each month at 3:00pm. Directions and a map are below.

I've included "Part 3" Suzanne Case's script she used for the Springwood Cemetery tour. Please remember to give Suzanne credit if you use any of it.

Don't forget to go to the SC Genealogy web site at: http://www.scgen.org/ to participate in the Surname Project. Go to "Current Projects"; then go to "Surname Form" to fill out the form on line. Or, you may download the form, print it, and then mail it. I've also included a copy in this month's newsletter.

Condolences are sent to the family of Lenore Riddle Putnam who was a long time member of the Greenville Chapter and DAR. Her parents were William Jasper and Mary Etta Stone Riddle. I found out that William Jasper Riddle was my 2nd cousin 3x removed. Speaker information for the March meeting was not submitted until after publication.

SPRINGWOOD CEMETERY TOUR- 2012 by Suzanne Case (Part 3)

A3. Chancellor Waddy Thompson, Elizabeth Thompson and Elizabeth Blackburn Williams -Moving on to our next stop in Section A, we will visit the gravesites of Chancellor Waddy Thompson, his wife, Elizabeth, and his mother-in-law, Elizabeth Blackburn Williams.

As we mentioned at the beginning of our tour, Mrs. Williams was the first person to be buried in what became Springwood Cemetery. This was actually originally the garden of the Chancellor's home - a spot Mrs. Williams loved so much she asked to be buried there.

Chancellor Thompson, himself, was born in Cumberland County, Virginia. Shortly after being admitted to the Virginia bar, he moved to Washington, Georgia to practice law. This was where he met his future wife, Elizabeth Williams, whom you also see buried here. The couple was married in 1793 and it was said by the gentleman who married them that they were "the handsomest couple he had ever seen." The Chancellor is described by Benjamin Perry as being "distinguished, tall and in proportion" and Edward Hooker, a visitor to Greenville in 1806, describes Chancellor Thompson as "a sleek, beautiful man of about 30." So, ladies, all in all, it appears that Chancellor Thompson quite a looker indeed. Apparently, as well as being known for his fine physique, he was also well known for his biting, sarcastic wit.

Shortly after Waddy and Elizabeth were wed, they moved to Pickensville, South Carolina, just south of present-day Easley. Waddy set up a very successful law practice in this location and was soon elected to the state legislature. He was appointed solicitor of the western court circuit in 1799 and in 1805 was appointed to the position of judge of equity court. In 1824, the equity court judges began to be called chancellors, hence Chancellor Waddy Thompson. He remained in the chancellor's position until 1828.

In 1799, Chancellor and Elizabeth Thompson moved their family to the Golden Grove section of Greenville County and several years after that, the family moved to the village of Greenville. The Chancellor bought the old courthouse and had it moved (no mean feat in those days) to the area across the street from us where you see the Insignia office building. The old cistern/spring that supplied the family's water is located behind the Kilgore-Lewis house which backs up to the cemetery.

Chancellor Thompson's mother-in-law, Elizabeth Blackburn Williams, lived with the family in their new home. It is said that she loved the garden of her new home so much that she used to sit in it for hours under a favorite tree while she knitted and sewed. In fact, she loved her spot under the tree so much that she asked to be buried under the said tree. Presumably, this is the spot. We can picture her sitting right here, quietly and happily knitting away. Does anyone hear the clacking of knitting needles?

A4. Peter Cauble - Another fine example of the entrepreneurial spirit which came to exemplify Greenville is on the next stop of our tour - blacksmith, Peter Cauble.

Peter and his family moved to Greenville in 1814 from Lincolnton, North Carolina. He set up his blacksmith shop on the west side of Main St. at the corner of present-day Coffee and Main Streets and across from what is now Ristorante Bergamo. Ristorante Bergamo is actually in what was known as the old Cauble Building, so-called because it was on land owned by Mr. Cauble and later passed down to some of his descendants. By all accounts, his shop appears to have been a typical blacksmith's shop with its heat, smoke, and black soot from the forge. Mr. Cauble enjoyed a certain amount of prominence as a blacksmith, especially since blacksmiths were considered as important as and maybe more necessary than lawyers, doctors and preachers.

The central location of his shop across the street from the Last Chance Saloon and near the horseswapping grounds at Sandy Flat ensured the success of the little shop. It also didn't hurt that the drovers with their livestock came right by the smithy's shop on the way to Augusta or Charleston. Think location, location, location.

At any rate, it was said that eventually Mr. Cauble was worth approximately $100,000, no small sum in the 1850's and '60's. With his fortune, he began to acquire land along the Enoree River and by 1860, in addition to his land, he also owned 21 slaves - a goodly number for the Upstate.

Alas, Mr. Cauble's fortunes did not prevail indefinitely. After the Civil War, the value of land in the south had declined steeply and it was no exception for Peter Cauble's land. He had to sell most of his land at a loss to pay debts incurred during the war. He had loaned a great deal of his fortune to needy individuals and guaranteed loans for others, many of whom were unable to pay him back after the financial devastation of the post-war years. He also spent a great deal of his money helping the poor and less fortunate find food, shelter, clothing and other essentials. Uncle Peter (as he was called) had, in fact, served as chairman of the Commissioners of the Poor for over 20 years. His charity cost him dearly, however, as he was practically insolvent by 1870.

Still, he continued to help the poor and needy of all races even as he continued working in his blacksmith shop until he was over 80 years old. By the time he died, he may have been considered poor monetarily, but he was certainly rich in love and respect from his fellow townspeople who universally considered him to be a kindhearted and generous man.

Samuel Campbell (1807-1893) in Greenville County, South Carolina

Compiled by: Arthur Coogler, DMD; Columbia, S.C.; carpedm2008@yahoo.com [I welcome additional information from other Campbell researchers.]

Samuel Campbell has not been found in South Carolina census records before 1840. He married about 1830, but apparently was not a head-of-household until after the census, about age 23. He first appears in land records when he purchased 66 acres in 1836, when he was 29 years old.

Samuel Campbell appears in the 1840 census as "Samuel Camel, Jr." He has 2 males under 5, 1 male 5-10, 1 male 30-40, 2 females 5-10 and 1 female 30-40. No slaves. This matches Samuel's family perfectly as it appears in the 1850 census. [Image 29 on ancestry.com]

Also, in the 1840 census, Samuel Camel, Sen'r, appears with 1 male 70-80, 1 female 15-20 and 1 female 30-40. No slaves. [Image 29] This could be Samuel's father. [Campbell sources indicated that Samuel, Sr., was born in Ireland in 1761, his wife died in 1834 and that he later died with family in Ohio in 1841. He was a brother of John Richard Campbell, Sr. (c.1760-c.1830), progenitor of many north Greenville County Campbells.]

Samuel appears in the 1850 (8 Nov) census with wife Nancy (maiden name Pollard), 2 daughters and 4 sons. Farmer. Land value is listed as $800.

John, age 14 [John Holliway]
William, age 11 [William Marion]
Josiah, age 6 [Josiah Thompson]
Samuel, age 3 [Samuel Preston]

In the 1850 Agricultural Schedule, he is listed with 50 acres of improved land, 200 acres of unimproved land, with total cash value of $800. [Image 21, line 18 on ancestry.com]

In the 1850 Slave Schedule, he had 2 slaves (females age 14 and 6.) [Image 42 on ancestry.com]

In the 1860 Agricultural Schedule, 80 acres improved, 155 acres unimproved. Value $1,600.

Lived next to James Lenderman. Samuel, age 53, farmer Samuel, age 14 Nancy, age 51 John, age 23, farmer Sarah, age 22 (John's wife, formerly Sarah "Sallie" Lenderman) William, age 20 Josiah, age 16 He appears in the 1860 Slave Schedule with 7 slaves, 5 females and 2 males. Females, ages 37,19,14,10,7. Males, ages 3 years, 2 months, [Must look up individual pages (Image 37 on ancestry.com), because Samuel Campbell does not appear in the general index.] Samuel Campbell had one son, John H. Campbell, and two sons-in-law. William M. Yearoin and John J. Slaten, who served in B Company, 16th SCVI, CSA, from Greenville County, In the 1870 Agricultural Schedule, 75 acres improved, 195 acres unimproved. Value $200. [Image 2, line 22] Land value doesn't match population census value of $1000. He appears in the 1870 (17 Aug) census in Grove Township (Grove Station Post Office). Estate value is $1,300 ($1000 land, 300 other). Farmer. Parents not listed as foreign born. Samuel, age 63 Lucy Pollard, Black, born VA, age 50 Nancy, age 62 Nancy Pollard, Black, born SC, age 17 Josiah, age 25 Celia Pollard, Black, born SC, age 15 Samuel, age 22 Mary Pollard, Black, born SC, age 2 In the 1880 Agricultural Schedule, 100 acres improved, 205 acres unimproved, Value $1,600 for land, $160 for livestock. [Image 5, line 2] Samuel "Sam" appears in the 1880 (7 Jun) census in Grove Township. Census indicates his father was born in Ireland. Widower. Farmer. Sam, age 72 Sarah Pollard, White, age 24, keeping house The 1890 census was lost in a fire in 1921. This included South Carolina documents. According to his tombstone, Samuel Campbell was born 10 Sep 1807 and died 19 Mar 1893. He is buried in the Campbell Family Cemetery with wife Nancy, sons William and Samuel "S.P.", other descendants, and in-laws and friends. The earliest death date identified on a tombstone in this cemetery is 1862, and the most recent two burials were in 1994. Documented land purchases by Samuel Campbell: 1836 - 66 acres, bought from Geo. Seaborn, Book S, p. 84, near Reedy Fork Creek. 1841 - 78 acres, bought from Benj.
